American taxpayers are quite interested in knowing how banks have used the money that Treasury has invested under the Capital Purchase Program (CPP) and Community Development Capital Initiative (CDCI). To answer that question, Treasury is seeking responses that describe generally how the CPP/CDCI investment has affected the operation of your business. We understand that once received, the cash associated with TARP funding is indistinguishable from other cash sources, unless the funds were segregated, and therefore it may not be feasible to identify precisely how the CPP/CDCI investment was deployed or how many CPP/CDCI dollars were allocated to each use. Nevertheless, we ask you to provide as much information as you can about how you have used the capital Treasury has provided, and how your uses of that capital have changed over time. Treasury will be pairing this survey with a summary of certain balance sheet and other financial data from your institution's regulatory filings, so to the extent you find it helpful to do so, please feel free to refer to your institution's quarterly call reports to illustrate your answers. This is your opportunity to speak to the taxpayers in your own words, which will be posted on our website.

What specific ways did your institution utilize CPP/CDCI capital? Check all that apply and elaborate as appropriate, especially if the uses have shifted over time. Your responses should reflect actions taken over the past year (or for the portion of the year in which CPP/CDCI funds were outstanding).

<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	Increase lending or reduce lending less than otherwise would have occurred.	Although the loan portfolio declined throughout 2010, CPB continued to originate new loans to support consumers and businesses throughout Hawaii. Without the CPP capital, CPB would have further curtailed its new lending activity.
<input type="checkbox"/>	To the extent the funds supported increased lending, please describe the major type of loans, if possible (residential mortgage loans, commercial mortgage loans, small business loans, etc.).
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	Increase securities purchased (ABS, MBS, etc.).	During 2010, CPB purchased more than $370 million in MBS issued by various government agencies. These purchases facilitate homeownership.

<input type="checkbox"/>	Make other investments
<input type="checkbox"/>	Increase reserves for non-performing assets
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	Reduce borrowings	During 2010, CPB reduced its outstanding borrowings by more than $230 million.
<input type="checkbox"/>	Increase charge-offs
<input type="checkbox"/>	Purchase another financial institution or purchase assets from another financial institution
<input type="checkbox"/>	Held as non-leveraged increase to total capital

What actions were you able to avoid because of the capital infusion of CPP/CDCI funds?

The CPP capital infusion allowed CPB to continue lending to meet the needs of consumers and businesses throughout Hawaii. During 2010, CPB originated approximately $1.2 billion in residential mortgage loans, $70 million in commercial real estate loans and $35 million in commercial and industrial loans. Without the CPP capital, CPB would have further curtailed its new lending activity.

Also, during fiscal year 2010, CPB originated 55 Small Business Administration (SBA) loans totaling $2.4 million. For the second year in a row, CPB originated more SBA loans than any other financial institution in Hawaii. In recognition of its lending activity, CPB was awarded the SBA's 504 Lender of the Year Award for Fiscal Year 2010. Without the CPP capital, CPB would have been forced to curtail its SBA lending activity.

Finally, in 2010, CPB originated more than 3,300 residential mortgage loans totaling more than $1.2 billion. CPB was the largest Hawaii-based originator of residential mortgage loans. CPB also actively sought opportunities to modify residential mortgage loans, where appropriate, to allow borrowers to remain in their homes. During 2010, CPB modified 184 residential mortgage loans totaling over $77 million.

What actions were you able to take that you may not have taken without the capital infusion of CPP/CDCI funds?
