American taxpayers are quite interested in knowing how banks have used the money that Treasury has invested under the Capital Purchase Program (CPP) and Community Development Capital Initiative (CDCI). To answer that question, Treasury is seeking responses that describe generally how the CPP/CDCI investment has affected the operation of your business. We understand that once received, the cash associated with TARP funding is indistinguishable from other cash sources, unless the funds were segregated, and therefore it may not be feasible to identify precisely how the CPP/CDCI investment was deployed or how many CPP/CDCI dollars were allocated to each use. Nevertheless, we ask you to provide as much information as you can about how you have used the capital Treasury has provided, and how your uses of that capital have changed over time. Treasury will be pairing this survey with a summary of certain balance sheet and other financial data from your institution's regulatory filings, so to the extent you find it helpful to do so, please feel free to refer to your institution's quarterly call reports to illustrate your answers. This is your opportunity to speak to the taxpayers in your own words, which will be posted on our website.

What specific ways did your institution utilize CPP/CDCI capital? Check all that apply and elaborate as appropriate, especially if the uses have shifted over time. Your responses should reflect actions taken over the past year (or for the portion of the year in which CPP/CDCI funds were outstanding).

<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	Increase lending or reduce lending less than otherwise would have occurred.	The $16 million of funds invested in Fremont Bank supported a strong residential lending business in 2010. Fremont Bank originated $4.6 billion of residential mortgage loans in 2010, of which most were sold in the secondary market. The sale of mortgage loans generated $56 million of gains on loan sales and security sales in 2010.
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	To the extent the funds supported increased lending, please describe the major type of loans, if possible (residential mortgage loans, commercial mortgage loans, small business loans, etc.).	A total of $172 million of residential mortgage loans were originated for the Bank's portfolio. This resulted in an increase in residential mortgage loans on the balance sheet of $89 million to $324 million at December 31, 2010, excluding loans held for sale.
<input type="checkbox"/>	Increase securities purchased (ABS, MBS, etc.).

<input type="checkbox"/>	Make other investments
<input type="checkbox"/>	Increase reserves for non-performing assets
<input type="checkbox"/>	Reduce borrowings
<input type="checkbox"/>	Increase charge-offs
<input type="checkbox"/>	Purchase another financial institution or purchase assets from another financial institution
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	Held as non-leveraged increase to total capital	Of the total $35 million in funds received by Fremont Bancorporation, $16 million were invested in Fremont Bank. The remaining funds of $19 million were held as a non-leveraged increase to total capital.

What actions were you able to avoid because of the capital infusion of CPP/CDCI funds?

In the midst of the "Financial Crisis" when it was difficult to know just how bad the economy was going to get, the CPP funds gave Fremont Bancorporation and its wholly-owned subsidiary Fremont Bank an extra layer of capital protection.

What actions were you able to take that you may not have taken without the capital infusion of CPP/CDCI funds?

None.

Please describe any other actions that you were able to undertake with the capital infusion of CPP/CDCI funds.

None.
