American taxpayers are quite interested in knowing how banks have used the money that Treasury has invested under the Capital Purchase Program (CPP) and Community Development Capital Initiative (CDCI). To answer that question, Treasury is seeking responses that describe generally how the CPP/CDCI investment has affected the operation of your business. We understand that once received, the cash associated with TARP funding is indistinguishable from other cash sources, unless the funds were segregated, and therefore it may not be feasible to identify precisely how the CPP/CDCI investment was deployed or how many CPP/CDCI dollars were allocated to each use. Nevertheless, we ask you to provide as much information as you can about how you have used the capital Treasury has provided, and how your uses of that capital have changed over time. Treasury will be pairing this survey with a summary of certain balance sheet and other financial data from your institution's regulatory filings, so to the extent you find it helpful to do so, please feel free to refer to your institution's quarterly call reports to illustrate your answers. This is your opportunity to speak to the taxpayers in your own words, which will be posted on our website.

What specific ways did your institution utilize CPP/CDCI capital? Check all that apply and elaborate as appropriate, especially if the uses have shifted over time. Your responses should reflect actions taken over the past year (or for the portion of the year in which CPP/CDCI funds were outstanding).

<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	Held as non-leveraged increase to total capital	Despite another challenging year, NewBridge Bancorp's ("Bancorp") total risk based capital ratio at 12/31/10 was 13.13%. As of 09/30/08, the quarter-end immediately prior to Bancorp's receipt of CPP capital, Bancorp's total risk based capital ratio was 10.18%

What actions were you able to avoid because of the capital infusion of CPP/CDCI funds?

Without the receipt of CPP funds, the Bank would have needed to limit lending in an effort to preserve capital. In addition, Bancorp may have needed to seek other capital sources, either through instruments such as trust preferred securities, or by issuing additional common or preferred stock.

What actions were you able to take that you may not have taken without the capital infusion of CPP/CDCI funds?

The Bank would not have been able to take aggressive action with our problem credits without the capital infusion of CPP funds. As a result of such actions, the Bank's management has been able to establish as its primary objective putting the adverse effects of the recession behind us as quickly as possible through early recognition of credit losses.

Please describe any other actions that you were able to undertake with the capital infusion of CPP/CDCI funds.
