American taxpayers are quite interested in knowing how banks have used the money that Treasury has invested under the Capital Purchase Program (CPP) and Community Development Capital Initiative (CDCI). To answer that question, Treasury is seeking responses that describe generally how the CPP/CDCI investment has affected the operation of your business. We understand that once received, the cash associated with TARP funding is indistinguishable from other cash sources, unless the funds were segregated, and therefore it may not be feasible to identify precisely how the CPP/CDCI investment was deployed or how many CPP/CDCI dollars were allocated to each use. Nevertheless, we ask you to provide as much information as you can about how you have used the capital Treasury has provided, and how your uses of that capital have changed over time. Treasury will be pairing this survey with a summary of certain balance sheet and other financial data from your institution's regulatory filings, so to the extent you find it helpful to do so, please feel free to refer to your institution's quarterly call reports to illustrate your answers. This is your opportunity to speak to the taxpayers in your own words, which will be posted on our website.

What specific ways did your institution utilize CPP/CDCI capital? Check all that apply and elaborate as appropriate, especially if the uses have shifted over time. Your responses should reflect actions taken over the past year (or for the portion of the year in which CPP/CDCI funds were outstanding).

What actions were you able to avoid because of the capital infusion of CPP/CDCI funds?

Had Pan American Bank & Trust not received the CPP/CDCI funds in 2010, it would have not had the necessary capital to grow the bank and lend to the surrounding communities. The funds helped PABT avoid actively attempting to shrink the loan portfolio and maintain the lending activity in low to moderate income communities. This would have hindered the surrounding communities we serve by restricting the funding available to them needed to grow or maintain their small businesses, or improve the surrounding areas.

What actions were you able to take that you may not have taken without the capital infusion of CPP/CDCI funds?

Pan American Bank & Trust's ability to remain an active participant in lending since receiving the CDCI funds has been of great benefit to the Bank's clients and surrounding communities, and has had a positive and beneficial impact on the Bank's growth. By increased interaction with members of the surrounding communities through our lending activities, Pan American Bank & Trust has subsequently become more involved in various community events, even beyond banking activities.

The bank continued improving its IT infrastructure in 2017, adding and enhancing products and services to its clients, giving them the tools they need to be more efficient and profitable in their businesses.

Please describe any other actions that you were able to undertake with the capital infusion of CPP/CDCI funds.

The capital infusion of CDCI funds in 2010 has helped fuel growth in the Bank, generating more profits and attracting additional shareholders to invest in the bank. The extra capital raised through new shareholders has provided enough funds to pay back the CDCI funds on 03/01/2017.
