American taxpayers are quite interested in knowing how banks have used the money that Treasury has invested under the Capital Purchase Program (CPP). To answer that question, Treasury is seeking responses that describe generally how the CPP investment has affected the operation of your business. We understand that once received, the cash associated with TARP funding is indistinguishable from other cash sources, unless the funds were segregated, and therefore it may not be feasible to identify precisely how the CPP investment was deployed or how many CPP dollars were allocated to each use. Nevertheless, we ask you to provide as much information as you can about how you have used the capital Treasury has provided, and how your uses of that capital have changed over time. Treasury will be pairing this survey with a summary of certain balance sheet and other financial data from your institution's regulatory filings, so to the extent you find it helpful to do so, please feel free to refer to your institution's quarterly call reports to illustrate your answers. This is your opportunity to speak to the taxpayers in your own words, which will be posted on our website.

What specific ways did your institution utilize CPP capital? Check all that apply and elaborate as appropriate, especially if the uses have shifted over time. Your responses should reflect actions taken over the past year (or for the portion of the year in which CPP funds were outstanding).

<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	Increase lending or reduce lending less than otherwise would have occurred.	We were able to increase lending activity during a period where many banks were not able to lend or purchase securities due to capital restraints.
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	To the extent the funds supported increased lending, please describe the major type of loans, if possible (residential mortgage loans, commercial mortgage loans, small business loans, etc.).	Average commercial loans, including commercial real estate, increased $9.8 million, or 8%, while consumer loans, including mortgages, increased $10.6 million, or 28%, from the date of funding of CPP funds through December 31, 2009.
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	Increase securities purchased (ABS, MBS, etc.).	Investment securities, including agencies and MBS, increased $18.4 million, or 141%, from the date of funding of CPP funds through December 31, 2009.

<input type="checkbox"/>	Make other investments
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	Increase reserves for non-performing assets	We were able to increase our allowances for loan losses by $622,000.
<input type="checkbox"/>	Reduce borrowings
<input type="checkbox"/>	Increase charge-offs
<input type="checkbox"/>	Purchase another financial institution or purchase assets from another financial institution
<input type="checkbox"/>	Held as non-leveraged increase to total capital

What actions were you able to avoid because of the capital infusion of CPP funds?

With a capital infusion of CPP funds, we were able to avoid limited lending and investing activities when there was still demand in the communities we serve.

What actions were you able to take that you may not have taken without the capital infusion of CPP funds?

With a capital infusion of CPP funds, we were able to continue lending and purchase securities during a period when many banks were limiting activities due to capital constraints.

Please describe any other actions that you were able to undertake with the capital infusion of CPP funds.
