American taxpayers are quite interested in knowing how banks have used the money that Treasury has invested under the Capital Purchase Program (CPP). To answer that question, Treasury is seeking responses that describe generally how the CPP investment has affected the operation of your business. We understand that once received, the cash associated with TARP funding is indistinguishable from other cash sources, unless the funds were segregated, and therefore it may not be feasible to identify precisely how the CPP investment was deployed or how many CPP dollars were allocated to each use. Nevertheless, we ask you to provide as much information as you can about how you have used the capital Treasury has provided, and how your uses of that capital have changed over time. Treasury will be pairing this survey with a summary of certain balance sheet and other financial data from your institution's regulatory filings, so to the extent you find it helpful to do so, please feel free to refer to your institution's quarterly call reports to illustrate your answers. This is your opportunity to speak to the taxpayers in your own words, which will be posted on our website.

What specific ways did your institution utilize CPP capital? Check all that apply and elaborate as appropriate, especially if the uses have shifted over time. Your responses should reflect actions taken over the past year (or for the portion of the year in which CPP funds were outstanding).

<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	Increase lending or reduce lending less than otherwise would have occurred.	Funds were used principally for lending in the third and fourth quarter 2009. The majority of the funds were used for lending by the SBA division and Commercial mortgage loan area with funds also lent by the residential mortgage division. Funds were also used to purch. resid. mtg. loans.
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	To the extent the funds supported increased lending, please describe the major type of loans, if possible (residential mortgage loans, commercial mortgage loans, small business loans, etc.). What actions were you able to avoid because of the capital infusion of CPP funds?

The Capital infusion of CPP funds allowed IA Bancorp, Inc. and its subsidiary, Indus American Bank to continue its growth and maintain capital ratios of a well-capitalized financial institution in a difficult time period for community banks to raise other outside capital.

What actions were you able to take that you may not have taken without the capital infusion of CPP funds?

Indus American Bank was able to continue funding its growth in the lending area without relying on additional borrowings or high cost deposits. As noted above, IA Bancorp and Indus American Bank were able to continue its asset growth while maintaining capital ratios worthy of a well-capitalized financial institution.

Please describe any other actions that you were able to undertake with the capital infusion of CPP funds.

The capital infusion of CPP funds into IA Bancorp, Inc. allowed IA to make a significant capital contribution into Indus American Bank.
